It is recommended that patients have an evaluation visit prior to scheduling for general anesthesia, intravenous anesthesia, or involved procedures. At this evaluation appointment your oral surgical problem can be evaluated, treatment options and plans discussed, and type of anesthetic selected. Your medical history will be reviewed and a determination of the fee will be made. In case of emergencies or special situations the evaluation may be done immediately prior to the surgical procedure. Less involved procedures, such as extractions under local anesthesia, also may be done at the initial visit.
